NATHAN B. EDDY MEMORIAL AWARD

Walter Ling, MD
Professor of Psychiatry and Founding Director
Integrated Substance Abuse Programs at UCLA
Los Angeles, CA

Board-certified in neurology and in psychiatry, Walter Ling, MD has enjoyed a successful career in clinical research and practice for more than five decades, consistently listed in the Best Doctors in America, Best Doctors in the West and Best Doctors in Los Angeles. He has been a leader in developing science-based addiction treatment since the Vietnam War heroin epidemic when President Richard Nixon established, under the leadership of Dr. Jerome Jaffe, the White House Special Action Office for Drug Abuse Prevention (SAPDAP), forerunner of the National Institute on Drug Abuse. Dr. Ling's numerous clinical trials through the years have contributed pivotal data to the Food and Drug Administration's approval of all the six dosage forms of the currently available medications used in Medication-Assisted Treatment. From 1989 through 2014, when he became Professor Emeritus, he has been a key investigator in NIDA's medication development efforts, leading in succession a highly successful and productive Treatment Research Unit, a P-50 center, and a CTN node. Acknowledged and respected nationally and internationally as clinician, researcher, and teacher, Dr. Ling has served as consultant on narcotic affairs to the U.S. Department of State, the World Health Organization, and United Nation's Office of Drug Control. For the last two decades, he led UCLA's Integrated Substance Abuse Programs, one of the foremost research and training organizations in drug abuse in the United States and worldwide that has provided extensive drug abuse training to countries in Asia, Southeast Asia, and the Middle East.

CPDD/NIDA MEDIA AWARD

Sam Quinones
Freelance Journalist and Author
Los Angeles, CA

Sam Quinones is a Los Angeles-based freelance journalist and author of three books of narrative nonfiction. His latest book is Dreamland: The True Tale of America's Opiate Epidemic (Bloomsbury, 2015), for which he traveled across the United States. Dreamland recounts twin stories of drug marketing in the 21st Century: A pharmaceutical corporation flogs its legal new opiate prescription painkiller as non-addictive. Meanwhile, immigrants from a small town in Nayarit, Mexico devise a method for retailing black-tar heroin like pizza in the US, and take that system nationwide, riding a wave of addiction to prescription pills from coast to coast. The collision of those two forces has led to America's deadliest drug scourge in modern times.

Dreamland won a National Book Critics Circle award for the Best Non-fiction Book of 2015. It was also selected as one of the Best Books of 2015 by Amazon.com, Slate.com, the Daily Beast, Buzzfeed, Seattle Times, Boston Globe, St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Entertainment Weekly, Audible, and in the Wall Street Journal and Bloomberg Business by Nobel economics laureate, Prof. Angus Deaton, of Princeton University. Quinones' previous two highly acclaimed books grew from his 10 years living and working as a freelance writer in Mexico (1994-2004). He is formerly a reporter with the L.A. Times, where he worked for 10 years (2004-2014). He is a veteran reporter on immigration, gangs, drug trafficking, and the border. Contact him at www.samquinones.com.

JOSEPH COCHIN
YOUNG INVESTIGATOR AWARD

Matthew Banks, Ph.D.
Assistant Professor
Department of Pharmacology and Toxicology
Virginia Commonwealth University, Richmond, VA

Matthew Banks is currently an Assistant Professor in the Department of Pharmacology and Toxicology at Virginia Commonwealth University (VCU). He earned his PharmD from the Raabe College of Pharmacy at Ohio Northern University in 2003. While at Ohio Northern University, he conducted drug abuse research under the mentorship of Dr. Jon Sprague. This research experience ignited his scientific curiosity and propelled him towards a scientific career in the field of drug abuse. Matthew earned his PhD in the Department of Physiology and Pharmacology at Wake Forest University in 2007 under the mentorship of Dr. Michael Nader. He subsequently completed postdoctoral fellowships under the mentorship of Dr. Leonard Howell and Dr. Steve Negus before joining the faculty in the Department of Pharmacology and Toxicology at VCU in 2010. His research group is interested in developing and using cutting-edge behavioral procedures for preclinical research on the neurobiology and pharmacological treatment of drug addiction. Specifically, they are interested in understanding how abused drug exposure leads to behavioral misallocation between competing drug and nondrug reinforcers. The ultimate clinical goal of the preclinical research program is to develop novel pharmacotherapies and behavioral strategies for treating substance use disorders.
