

Late-Breaking Research Guidelines

A limited number of abstracts will be accepted for presentation as 5-minute talks in sessions devoted to important late-breaking findings (i.e. after December 3, 2018) at the Annual Meeting. A member of CPDD must be a co-author. Although only 1 abstract of this type is allowed, that author may have submitted another abstract under the earlier deadline.

Subject Matter

Papers can be on any aspect of substance use disorder or addiction or on the actions of drugs of abuse. They should contribute to our knowledge of the agents involved in substance use disorder, including their molecular biology, chemistry, pharmacological action, biological disposition, abuse potential, safety or clinical usefulness. Contributions concerning research on neurobiology, epidemiology, prevention, public health aspects, or management and treatment of drug dependence are also encouraged. The abstract must contain original research.

Original Research includes all prospective and retrospective studies that involve testing a hypothesis by collecting and analyzing data. Abstracts of basic research or clinical studies must specify the following: hypothesis, species, number of subjects, procedures, statistical analyses, results (including specific, numerical statistical outcomes like p values or descriptive statistics) and importance of findings (conclusions). Scholarly historical or sociological reports must specify hypothesis, procedures, analyses, results, and a concluding statement describing the implications of the study. Please note that results must be explicitly described in the abstract, and that abstracts reporting no results will likely be rejected. Recently completed studies, as yet unpublished, are preferred and any in press work must have a publication date after July 1, 2019. Abstracts should be 300 words or less.
